

The aim is

- the exchange of competences between students of architecture from different universities
- practical training in intensive designing and hand-crafting at the place of interest
- to create an experimental, solution-oriented workspace
- to get new inspiration by local modern architecture

We are

- students doing their bachelor studies at the Bauhaus-University Weimar
- NO mentors, professors or professional architects

Together we are going to

- work in groups of 2 - 5 students
- think and discuss about the specific needs of this small area at Kukulida's backyard
- make a simple design concept within 2 days
- present our ideas to the members of the Kukulida housing project
- thing again in details afterwards
- finally realize one concept or parts of it
- have a closer look at modern architecture in Dresden

Costs

- accomodation for free
- we don't pay you money for your work
- we don't pay your travel expenses to Dresden
- you need about 15 € per day for public transport, food and admissions charges

Accomodation

- very simple: there is one big room and you will sleep in your sleepings bags on camping mats
- a visual impression:
<http://www.kukulida.de/veranstaltungsraume.htm>
- with toilets and shower
- we are going to organize a cooking plate to cook together for all of us every day
- and important too: we have electric power supply and free internet access

You need

- your stuff that seems to be important for you to work independently: sketching materials, notebook, rule, camera, ...
- working clothes
- a sleeping back and camping mat

How to get there

- good available by car-sharing, have a look at: www.mitfahrgelegenheit.de
- Dresden has an airport, frequent Low-Cost-Flights only from Leipzig and Berlin
- Address:
Martin-Luther-Straße 1
